the second, 6-1. Proiseth won the deciding set, 6-3.

In the play for the Leyson cup Rust and Snyder surprised the talent by winning the first set, 6-0. The brilliant back court work of Rust with his accuracy in placing his smashes deserved a different score than the final one. In the next two sets Edwards and Dinwoodey played a more careful game and succeeded in winning by the score 8-6, 6-1, 6-2.

In the afternoon play was again resumed in the doubles. R. Badger and Brown met and defeated Evans and Froiset in two games, the score being 6-3 and 6-2. Play will continue today.

EDWARDS AND FROISETH PUT UP WENTWORTH'S FAST BUNCH IS ADDED TO THE STRING.

The weeding down the semi-finals in the Miller court tournament continued yesterday morning before a large and appreciative audience. In the play for the mind of any person who thinks here is no interest in horse racing in Zion Ash cup Froiseth played a hard game against Horning, who though apparently weak on back hand stroke made him work for every point.

Froiseth finally won, 8-2, 6-1. Edwards had no difficulty in beating Snyder, 6-0, 6-1.

Though somewhat exhausted by former sets, Edwards and Froiseth put up the sets. Edwards and Froiseth put up the best exhibition seen on the courts so far. Both men played a hard, steady game.

Idaho Falls Shoves Pocatello Down a Notch For Pennant in Snake River Valley League.

(Special to The Herald.) Idaho Falls, Ida., July 30.-The locals today for the third consecutive time took today for the third consecutive time took a leap up the percentage column, while Pocatello took the next round down, score 11 to 3. It was petitier a pitchers' battle nor the fielders' chance that marked today's game, but a plain, blunt game of ball, devoid of the spectacular except possibly when the locals' shortstop and second baseman, Beck and Mortenson, made a couple of pretty doubles. Hall and Fridell were pitted against each other in the box. Hall having the margin all the time except possibly in the batting. Pocatello's outfield behaved micely as also did the locals, with the exception of in the fifth inning, when Knox in the center garden dropped a high fly. Carney played short miserably, accepting two out of five chances.

Putting Match.

Putting Match.

"The game is thus reduced to a putting match, and on home greens of a nature and composition unknown to the visitor, the home player has a most decided advantage. Take a long player like Richards, for example. There was only one hole on the course where he was obliged to use his brassle. The consequence was that he could never get away from his opponent through the green, and the advantage that he would naturally have on a long course, properly laid out, with hazards to catch imperfect shots, was entirely nullified by the nature of the course. As I remarked to one of the Sait Lake players, after going over the course for the first time, such a course reduces golf to a combination of crequet and tiddledy winks.

New Course in Prospect.

New Course in Prospect.

"All these criticisms I made the first day I played over the course, so the are not excuses for our defeat, but reasons that were foreseen and some of the best players on the Sait Lake team entirely agreed with me. In fact, it is exceedingly probable that we shall never play another match on the same course for land has already been secured of which to lay out a new and far superfocture. Despite all these handicaps, however, the best scores made in the tour nament were made by Butte men, Gree and Richards, both making $\frac{1}{2}\sigma$ in the second day's play, when they were playing hard uphill game; and in practice game before, the tournament, both Green in Hichards beat Copp, but the fortunes of war gave Copp and Thompson such a bear in the first day's tournament playing that it was impossible to overcome it, even be most brilliant play. In fact, I have to turned more thoroughly convinced after this decisive defeat than I was before that the Butte golfers, on a course when it is a real test of golf, can beat the Still of the second of the second of the playing that the Butte golfers, on a course when it is a real test of golf, can beat the Still of the second of the se
